

Happy Hour

Another fantastic and unexpected Happy Hour was enjoyed recently, bringing smiles and great memories for everyone who attended.

The chilly night was made cozy by a lovely, roaring fire that warmed everyone's spirits.

As the night deepened and whiskey flowed freely, Neville reached beneath his seat and, to everyone's surprise, pulled out a guitar. With a grin, he began to strum, filling the air with music and laughter."

He played old favourites from Slim Dusty and Adam Brand.

Neville then went on to play his own songs and had us all singing along.

One of our guests, Emma, joined in the singing, and it was clear she had a fantastic voice. Most of us stopped our own screeching to sit back and enjoy as Neville played and Emma sang, creating a truly memorable moment.

Everyone eventually wandered off to enjoy a delicious evening meal, bringing the night's festivities to a gentle close.

Some guests were so relaxed, they drifted off to sleep right in their chairs.
