

Wild, windy, wonderful Wylie

Recently, Wyalkatchem experienced severe weather conditions.

The town was thoroughly washed clean as lightning flashed, thunder rumbled, and heavy rain poured down.

After days of soaring temperatures, the rain brought a refreshing change.

As the rain subsided, the sky turned a beautiful shade of pink.

It was even more spectacular than Wylie's stunning sunrises and sunsets.

All the travellers Park guests gathered around the Kevin Jones camp kitchen, enjoying the amazing sight until night fell and Happy Hour came to an end.

As the guests headed back to their vans and tents, they remarked on how rare and beautiful the sky was, feeling fortunate to have witnessed such an amazing sight.
